Planning

Meaning and Functions of Management Planning

Meaning of Planning

Functions of Management Planning

Steps in Planning

1. Establishing Objectives

Planning requires a systematic approach. Planning starts with the setting of goals and objectives to be achieved. Objectives provide a rationale for undertaking various activities as well as indicate directions of efforts. Moreover, objectives focus the attention of managers on the end results to be achieved. As a matter of fact, objectives provide a focus to the planning process. Therefore, objectives should be stated in a clear, precise and unambiguous language. Otherwise, the activities undertaken are bound to be ineffective. As far as possible, objectives should be stated in quantitative terms. For example, Number of men working, wages given, units produced, etc. But such an objective cannot be stated in quantitative terms like performance of quality control manager, effectiveness of personnel manager. Such goals should be specified in qualitative terms. Better objectives should be practical, acceptable, workable and achievable.

Establishment of Planning Premises

Planning premises are the assumptions about the likely shape of events in future. They serve as a basis of planning. Establishment of planning premises is concerned with determining where one needs to deviate from the actual plans and causes of such deviations. It is to find out what obstacles are there in the way of business during the course of operation. Establishment of planning premises is concerned to take such steps that avoids these obstacles to a great extent. Planning premises may be internal or external. Internal includes capital investment policy, management labor relations, philosophy of management, etc. Whereas external includes socio-economic, political and technological changes. Internal premises are controllable whereas external are uncontrollable.

Identification of Alternative Courses of Action

After the planning premises are established, the next step is to identify alternative courses of action. A manager has to search for alternative courses of action which can be achieved through planning.

योगा करत असताना सर्वात लक्षात घ्याव्या गोष्टी

1. योगा करत असताना मध्येच अजिबात धाणी पिऊ नये.
2. योगा हा नेहमी सकाळी त्रिकाश्या घाटी आणि चोट साफ झाल्यानंतरच करायला हवा.
3. योगा करत असताना तुम्ही शरीरावर कमीत कमी आणि सैलसर कपडे घाला.
4. योगा नेहमी सोकव्या आणि स्वच्छ जागीच करावा.
5. योगा करताना सर्वात पहिले सोप्या भागनाने सुरुवात करावी आणि सगळीच भाग असतानाच ते नेहमी करावे.
6. योगा हा नेहमी एकाच तज्ज्ञाच्या देखरेखीखालीच करावा.

EMPLOYABILITY SKILLS REPORT

SKILL DEVELOPMENT PROGRAMME

- OVERVIEW
- COURSE CONTENT

OVERVIEW

Employability is a set of skills, knowledge and personal attributes that make an individual more employable. Along with good technical understanding and subject knowledge, employers often outline a set of skills that they want from an employee. These skills are what they believe will equip the employee to carry out their role to the best of their ability. Employability depends on your knowledge, skills and attitudes, how you use those assets, and how you present them to employers. However, employer prefer candidate who already have these skills, because they are much harder to teach also and are time and money consuming.

Considering the significance and necessity of the subject trainer has designed 'Skills Development' course, that encompasses all prime essential employability skills.

This course designed to support an individual successfully gaining a job, broader set of skills, progressing in a chosen field, to be successful throughout their working life. ✓ The student was present then exited, rejoined, then exited again, and rejoined again, etc. etc.
The alternating background patterns indicate that the student may have left and rejoined the Meet

✓ The student was marked present by the teacher (but did not show up in the Meet window)
The student missed the entire class

To help your eye follow across the page, the table rows alternate between white and grey backgrounds which leads to two subtly different shades of green for the times when the student was present

Reading Comprehension

Passage 1

As the saying goes, competition brings out the best in products, and sometimes, the worst in people. In the case of Volkswagen fuel emissions scandal, it has led to both bad products and unethical practices. The world's largest automaker by sales, with roots in industrious Germany, stooped low to gain a foothold in the US — the second largest auto market — and pip rival Toyota, to be the lead player by hook or crook. It rigged software that turned up dubious data in nearly 11 million vehicles sold over several years. The move cost the CEO his job, wiped off $24 billion in VW's market value, and the company will likely face billions in penalties.

The US implements stringent fuel emission standards. But, instead of conducting its own tests, surprisingly, it relies on auto-makers for data. India too follows a similar procedure, where carmakers test vehicles at designated centres and send the results to the government for review and approval. It may be necessary to determine if our lax testing norms are/were exploited. With over 18 crore vehicles currently — likely to touch 45 crore in 2030 — India has notorious pollution levels and the onus is on the government to enforce strict regulations. As it is, our fuel emission norms are way behind developed nations that moved to Euro VI. Only 13 cities have Euro IV-compliant norms, while the rest of the country is stuck with Euro III.

If we were to enforce higher emission limits, chances are the difference between lab and real world tests will vary widely. Hence, the government must rethink how emissions are tested. To reduce reliance on self-reported testing data, neutral third-party agencies with necessary infrastructure can be roped in to conduct tests. While it may not be feasible for the authorities to scrutinize every vehicle, surprise checks and audits should be undertaken to detect deceptions. The EU is taking steps in this direction in the wake of the VW episode. Much of the vehicular air pollution can, in fact, be avoided by maintaining proper speed and as a first step, traffic-prone metros should be de-congested. Lastly, cheating should be dealt with severely to prevent it from becoming an industry-wide malpractice.

1. According to the passage, which move by Volkswagen deteriorated the image of the company?

- a) Playing with the data of vehicles sold over the years.
- b) Hiding the data of vehicles sold over the years.
- c) Manipulating the data of vehicles sold over the years.
- d) Publishing the data of vehicles sold over the years.
- e) None of the above

2. Volkswagen took advantage of which of the following factors?

- a) Stringent fuel emission norms.
- b) Lenient testing norms.
- c) Lesser Competition in the automobile market.
- d) Government testing vehicles at their centres.
- e) None of the above

3. According to the author of the passage, what can be the solution to enforce higher emission limits?

- a) Government doing testing of vehicles on its own.
- b) Carmakers doing testing of vehicles on its own.
- c) Outsourcing the testing work to third-party neutral agencies having necessary infrastructure.
- d) Government should create in-house team for testing vehicles.
- e) None of the above

4. What does the author mean by the term 'industry-wide malpractice'?

- a) Most of the companies belonging to a particular industry following unethical practices.
- b) A single company belonging to a particular industry following unethical practices.
- c) A few selected companies belonging to a particular industry following unethical practices.
- d) All the industries in India following unethical practices.

9. Developed countries have made adequate provisions for social security for senior citizens. State insurers (as well as private ones) offer medicare and pension benefits to people who can no longer earn. In India, with the collapse of the joint family system, the traditional shelter of the elderly has disappeared. And the state faced with a financial crunch is not in a position to provide a social security. So, it is advisable that the working population give serious thought to building a financial base for itself.

Which one of the following, if it were to happen, weakens the conclusions drawn in the above passage the most?

- a) The working population's investible income will grow as compared to total income.
- b) The health sector is trending towards privatization and is still underdeveloped.
- c) With all the implications including negative and positive, India is trending towards a developed country status.
- d) Joint family system will get revived if the working population builds a stronger financial base.
- e) None of the above

10. Various studies have shown that our forested and hilly regions and, in general, areas where biodiversity (as reflected in the variety of flora) is high, are the places where poverty appears to be high. And these same areas are also the ones where educational performance seems to be poor. Therefore, it may be surmised that, even disregarding poverty status, richness in biodiversity goes hand in hand with educational backwardness.

Which one of the following statements, if true, can be said to best provide supporting evidence for the surmise mentioned in the passage?

- a) Poverty levels are high in regions with high variety in flora.
- b) Poor education performance was shown by the regions with high biodiversity and low levels of poverty.
- c) High levels of poverty and poor educational performance was shown by the regions with high biodiversity.
- d) In regions where there is low biodiversity at all levels of poverty, educational performance is seen to be good.
- e) None of the above

108. If Rip Van Winkle were to go to sleep in 1947 & wake up in 1995, he would not be able to recognize educational map of India. Educational scene at time of independence was rather dismal. British educational administration failed to create what is called national system of education. Another reason for failure of British educational administration was its inability to bring about a proper synthesis between East & West. British government designed educational system in India only to produce clerks & middle-level functionaries to support & sustain their own rule. In words of J.P. Naik & Syed Nurullah in 'A student's history of education in India,' "Indian education was like Cinderella tied to apron strings of educational system of England" & that precisely has been tragedy of our educational system. Quantitatively, British educational system was characterized by regional disparities, structural imbalances & gender inequalities. Besides, it was virtually bereft of vocational & technical education. There was no such thing as non-formal education, adult education or open education. Result was that India, which was once called golden sparrow, became poor country with illiterate population although it was same country which gave scripts & literature to half of world in ancient times. Percentage of literacy as understood by British educational administration was only 14 & total educational expenditure Rs. 57 crore. Only one youth in every twenty in age group 14-17 was in school. In age group 11-14 only 1 child out of every eleven was enrolled, while in age group 6-11, 1 out of every 3 was on school register. Rural population was thoroughly neglected & girls' education was only in name. Standard of education was generally poor, especially at school stage, with too much stress on English language & too little emphasis on math, science & Indian languages, it was this challenging task which country had to face & rectify. In brief, we began our independence with low level of attainment. During last 48 years educational system in India has expanded beyond recognition. Number of primary schools in country is more than 6 lakh today as against 1.41 lakh in 47. About 94% of children in age group 6-11 are served by primary schools located within a radius of 1 km from house of child. In dwellings & areas where child is unable to go to school, school goes to child in shape of nonformal Education Centre. About 2.84 lakh such centres are functioning throughout length & breadth of country. Girls' education is free throughout country up to class XII. As against 17 universities in 1947, today we have 211 universities including 36 deemed universities. Number of colleges has gone from 600-7000 during this period. There are 35 lakh teachers in India who cater to an enrolment, of 12 crore students through network of 6.5 lakh educational institutions, In terms of number of literate people, India is largest country. It also produces largest number of graduates in world. Rate of literacy has gone up from 14 to 52.11%. Educational expenditure, which was only Rs. 57 crore in 47, is about Rs. 20,000 crore today. If non-plan expenditure is added, it is only next to defence. 4) Why was India called as Golden Sparrow? *
